Supporting Adolescents and Families in Recovery offered by Vista Hill SmartCare Integrated Behavioral Health Services

In a safe and supportive group environment, professional staff and trained facilitators present educational concepts for substance abuse and recovery to youth in various stages of recovery. Parents find a place where they can relate to others with similar experiences, and develop a network of support with other families.

SAFIR is a "family participation" model and requires a minimum of one responsible adult to attend group sessions with the adolescent. Our approach to recovery brings the entire family together since substance abuse problems touch everyone in the household.
